Technical Analysis

NIFTY 50

On Friday, Nifty 50 formed a high volatile candle with a lower wick, showing selling pressure and some buying at lower levels. It stayed between 23,850 and 24,365. Breaking this range could set the next move. The index still trades above key moving averages, keeping the broader trend positive. However, daily and weekly candles show weakness and selling from higher levels. Momentum indicators remain mixed.
